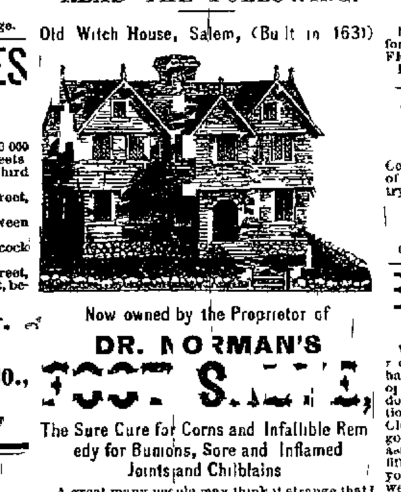
Old Witch House, Salem, (Built in 1631)



Now owned by the Proprietor of

DR. NORMAN'S

FOOT SALVE,

The Sure Cure for Corns and Infallible Remedy for Bunions, Sore and Inflamed Joints and Chilblains

A great many people may think it strange that I am spending so much money in bringing before the public this article of FOOT SALVE especially as it is sold at so low a price that it hardly warrants so much advertising. The reason I do this is because I know from experience how much a person suffers from a corn or other disease of the feet, and I think it my duty to make known to the suffering community as much as it is in my power to do the true value of this FOOT SALVE, that they may experience the relief that I did from its use some two years ago. I had been suffering at that time for several months from a hard corn, which was so painful at times that it was almost unbearable, when Dr Norman, a Chiropodist, came to my place of business and offered me the Salve to sell but I took no stock in it, as I had never heard before of a salve that had been used with perfect success for diseases of the feet only He induced me to have it applied to my corn as a guarantee of its worth the first morning after its use I was surprised to find that all the soreness had disappeared and in a week's time the corn came off itself. Finding with what success it worked in my case, I bought a quantity of the Salve and offered it to my customers, who used it for all the diseases for which it is recommended with like results I finally bought the right and formula from Dr Norman, and now offer it to the public generally at a price within the reach of all, trusting that by using it as directed that they will experience the great benefit that I did from its use.

Price, 25 Cents a Box.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

To its Natural Vitality and Color.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition all turn the hair gray, and either of them inclines it to shed prematurely

AYER S HAIR VIGOR, by long and extensive use, has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately, often renews the growth and always surely restores its color, when faded or gray It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beauty Thus brashy, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair regrows with lively expression falling hair is checked and stablished, thin hair thickens, and faded or gray hairs resume their original color Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies' hair, the Vigor is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts

The Irrepressible Conflict!

It is undecessary to call attenton to or comment upon the great speech of Senator Blaine in support of his resolutions designed to ascertain whether this is really "a government of the people by the people and for the people," or a government to be controlled by violence and fraud. It speaks for itself and its calmness, earnestness and resistless logic will be recognized by millions of citizens to-day throughout the United States; and countless numbers of those who have never considered the portentous magnitude of the issue involved, will have conviction startlingly forced home upon them by the clear and powerful massing of the facts of the situation.

The protest so unanswerably declared by Senator Blaine cannot be whistled down the wind by sentimental deprecators of "sectional agitation," nor sneered out of sight as the "waving of the bloody shirt." Mr. Blaine speaks to the country with the words of a statesman, concerning a monstrous evil that threatens the very existence of free government and that has already enabled the same men who sought to destroy the Nation to usurp control of its legislative power in bold defiance of the very safeguards established to protect the results of our bloody and costly triumph over Rebellion.

The time has come when this issue ceases to be solely or principally a question of the rights of the loyal black citizens in the South; and the people are awakening to the fact that the rights of the loyal white citizens of the North are becoming a sacrifice to the lawless encroachments of that faction in the South which has hitherto been constantly bent upon "rule or ruin."

When so able a Democratic leader as Senator Thurman, can find no better answer than frivolous talk about campaign contributions and complaints of the influence of employers upon the political action of their employes in the North, it is a practical confession that there is no defence to offer, while at the same time it exhibits the determination of the Democratic party to excuse and try to conceal the monstrous frauds upon the suffrage. Lamar's affected solicitude for the education of the negro and his palpable threat that it will be dangerous to the country to attempt to inquire into the shot-gun, bulldozing and tissue-ballot lawlessness in the South, are in the same line, and will be understood by the people of the North.

Senator Blaine presses home the real issue, and in so doing he not only speaks as the champion of Republican principles, but as the exponent of the rights, interests and determination of the loyal citizenship of the country. In the "irrepressible conflict" of law and liberty against fraud and terrorism, the North will be found as solid as it was when the same revolutionary faction opened fire on Sumter in 1861.

A NICE PROGRAMME.

[From the Portland Press.]

The Bangor Commercial, which is at present the most outspoken advocate in this State of Mr. Rust's new National Democratic party, and represents the wishes and purposes of those factions of the Democratic and National parties that are now edging up to each other, presents a fine programme for the consideration of the next Legislature, and insists that the programme shall be carried out. It intimates that every Greenbacker and Democrat elected to the Legislature must go to the State House determined to reduce State expenditures, and points out the reductions that should be made.

For one thing the Commercial insists that the appropriation for the Bath "Naval Asylum," by which it means the asylum for the orphans of soldiers and sailors, shall be cut off. A move in that direction was to be expected from the Commercial. It still cherishes a hatred toward the defenders of the Union. Another blow is struck at the orphans. No money shall be given for the Portland Female Orphan Asylum, for the Bangor Children's Home, or for the Industrial School for Girls. Then the Schools system is assaulted. The Free High Schools are to be abolished, the State Normal Schools are to be done away with, the Agricultural College is to be annihilated, we are no longer to have a Superintendent of Common Schools, nor to pay the School mill tax. The next attack is made upon the Bank Examiner. Our Savings Banks are to have their own sweet will hereafter, unvexed by the curious inquiries of the agent of the people. But the Commercial does not stop here. The Fish Commission must go, the Militia must disband, the Agricultural Societies shall receive no aid, the Maine General Hospital shall be left unprovided for. The brunt of the attack it will be seen, is to be borne by the schools and the great charities of the State. Those who thought last fall that they were voting against resumption of specie payments were voting, it seems, for the crippling of the public schools in which their children are educated. Those who thought they were breaking up "rings" discover that they are breaking up our worthiest charitable institutions. The Commercial represents, it is well understood, the views of the leaders of the coalition. It proclaims their purposes. Should they be able to command a majority of the Legislature the measures of "retrenchment" they advocate will be passed. The danger to the welfare of the State and of the best of our public institutions is great. Fortunately two at least of our candidates for Governor, are pronounced in their opposition to the silly and wicked scheme, and it must be that some of the men elected to the Legislature as Democrats or Greenbackers will sternly oppose legislation so detrimental to the best interests of the community and the good name of the State. "Retrenchment" that starves our schools and charites is death to the body politic. It is perhaps only natural that the Commercial should direct its most savage blows at the school house, for education is the great foe of the principles and prejudices it represents. But it will find that the majority of the people of Maine do not sympathize with it in its hatred, and are minded to maintain the public school system and to educate their children. In their way of thinking, ignorance is not bl'ss.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

THE SILVER CONTROVERSY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9, 1878.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier:

The enemies of honest money confess their defeat at the battle of resumption of specie payments, but are reorganizing in the expectation of concentrating their forces upon silver, and from that as a base, executing a successful flank movement. They say in one of their organs:

Currency reformers should not make the mistake of wasting their ammunition in a misdirected fire. Whatever the results of resumption may be, and no man can accurately foretell its results, the true point of attack is still the surreptitious demonetization of silver, and the object to be gained its full remonetization by placing it upon a perfect equality with gold. The bi-metallic standard, or option to pay debts in either money-metal, exactly as it was possessed before 1873, is a demand which will still win popular approbation. The national banks, of course, must go out of the business of issuing paper money, sooner or later, but, with specie payments in operation, the neccessity for the free mintage of silver will be more pressing than ever, and this necessity determines the paramount issue now before the people. By placing itself at the head of this demand for a valuable right, of which the people have been fraudulently deprived, the Democracy can capture the greater part of the Greenback vote and the next Presidency. This is the practical phase of the financial question, and the success or failure of the Democrats at the present session will depend chiefly upon how clearly they perceive the fact, how boldly they seize it, and how unequivocally they make their record upon it.

Just so! Then they will have the Republicans where they want them—as "Fighting Joe" had "Bob Lee," at Chancellorsville when he wanted him to either "surrender or ingloriously retreat."

The result of the action in Maine last September, was a hard one, but fortunately at a council of war, our leaders determined to "fight it out on that line, (the Maine line) if it took all summer." The news from Maine was sounded along the line—the line was straightened and strengthened, stragglers crowded to the front and when the smoke of battle cleared, the whole country was astonished at the victory won. Then as in former days, we were told we had fought a battle without an enemy. It was said the Greenbackers were all in Maine, and had taken no part in the fight. As there were good Republicans who fought against us in the ranks of the Greenbackers, the Democracy hope to retain them, capture and make use of others, by a change of base. They expect to rope them in on silver. It is unfortunate that there are men and newspapers, who consider themselves good Republicans, who are not sound, on their silver question, who don't seem to realize that the best money, like the best coffee, is the best for family use. They should read the history of American Currency, by Sumner, or any other work on currency that they can obtain, though the work referred to, is written in a very readable style and is in large print.

By the use of a silver dollar instead of a gold one, it is proposed to revive prosperous times, give the working classes plenty to do, and consequently plenty of silver dollars. The prospect is delightful, and we confess it touches a tender spot under our jacket—it makes the palms of our hands sensitive,—in fact to itch, and we find ourselves reaching out after some, now, notwithstanding the modus operandi of the thing has not been explained.

But why should we have knowledge, if we have faith? Faith will lead us out of the wilderness, and by faith shall eighty-three cents equal a dollar. In fact all we want is faith, to enable us to pay our debts and pay them in silver. Were we not told before the passage of the silver bill that it would make us rich?

Sometimes we think we are not getting rich as fast as we might, but presume the reason is, that only about twenty-one millions of silver dollars have been coined as yet, and they are nearly all in the Treasury, bad luck to the "gold-bugs" and "bloated bond-holders." Then again we think we haven't faith enough, especially since the rascally national banks decided if we do get rich and deposit our silver dollars with them, to pay us back in kind. Why should they, who never did nuthin for their country but take the country's bonds and give the country their money, when the matter of a loan was only a matter of life or death to the country, and who have only paid war taxes ever since, refuse to respond with gold for silver? Sometimes we wonder how it is going to be, when prices of sugar, coffee, flour, molasses, coal, wood, and other necessaries of life, to say nothing of luxuries, have advanced in price, as silverites say they will, as well as real estate and all kinds of property? Will our savings buy as much as they do now? Won't some one have to pay more rent? If the farmer gets more for his wheat, won't we pay more for our flour? And won't foreign nations buy for less than we do, for the reason that they will offer better money than we can? Have two kinds of currency ever circulated together? Will not the poorer always drive out the better? Was it not so, when barber-shops were papered with Continental money? Was it not so less than fifteen years ago, North and South? We pause for a reply.

It is now said that the debate in the Senate on Senator Blaine's resolution in regard to the recent elections in the South, will not begin until Wednesday next at one o'clock. It will be opened by Mr. Blaine with a brief speech, to be followed by Senators Thurman and Gordon. The Democrats are displaying danger signals and sign-boards, "Beware of man-traps" and "dogs." They are on the defensive, where they will be kept until after 1880. They blame Blaine of Maine for it.

HOWARD.

AN AGONIZING GUSH

[From the Halifax (N. S.) Chronicle.]

On a far-off isle, on a mighty nation, the mother of nations, shine the rays of the rising sun. On the mighty billows of the ocean, vexed by fretful November winds, on a speeding ship, with fair and manly burden freighted, strike the rays of the noon-day orb. On a vast continent, on an expectant people, gleam the splendors of the setting king of day. Out into the Atlantic Canada has gazed through the deep gloom of night and the vapors of the early dawn, watching for the first faint glimpse of the golden, crimson banner. From distant isle to near continent comes floating o'er the waters the whispered prayer of God speed the daughter of the Queen and the heir of Argyll. From the mountains and plains, from the valleys and dales, from the lakes and seas of the great Dominion, there breathes forth the passionate call, "O bring them safely! O bring them quickly," and it rolls on away, away through fog, through storm, and meets the brave ship as she dashes on westward with the star of empire. Old ocean's waste, gray and melancholy no more, but gay and glad, echoes the wish of millions in England and millions in Canada. Who is it that comes from across the sea? "Lorne!" shout the waves of the deep. "Louise!" cries the winds of heaven. Lorne, chosen by the Queen to rule this fair land, of a ducal race the heir. Louise, the royal bride, of a chief of the Gaels.—Lorne and Louise, our gracious rulers.

TOO STIFF A DOSE OF ROYALTY FOR THE CANADIANS.

[From the Boston Journal.

Recently we remarked that Canada was more than happy over the arrival of Marquis Lorne and Princess Louise. The reception was lavish in its expression of regard, loyalty and joy. It seems, however, to be of the kind that is too sweet to keep. The vice-regal pair or their servants have done several things which cause the loyalty of Canada to dissent in a most Democratic manner. Perhaps the one thing which has aroused the loudest protest is the following announcement of the Chamberlain of the new Governor-General and his royal wife in the Toronto papers:

"Ladies desirous of being admitted to the reception held by Her Royal Highness, at 9.30 P. M., on Saturday, November 30, at the Windsor Hotel, must wear low dresses, unless they present a doctor's certificate of ill health, in which case they may come with the front of the dress cut square; but in no case are they to appear in high-necked dresses."

This royal ukase has called forth indignant responses from the Dominion press. The Toronto Mail, which is a Tory paper, thus comments upon the above order:

"We are a loyal people favorable to monarchical institutions, but are far removed from St. James, and a court can take no root in soil where the echo of the ax and logging-chain of the backwoods rings with no uncertain sound through the streets of our commercial or political metropolis. We have not the elements to constitute a real court. A mock court would be a deplorable burlesque, from which the good sense of all concerned will, we feel sure, happily deliver us."

The Toronto Globe dissents in the following language:

"The Princess has a perfect right to intimate to her guests the manner in which they shall be dressed. But it may be permitted to warn her advisers on this matter that very many Canadian ladies will be altogether unable, if these rules are enforced, to show their attachment and respect for the Princess in the usual manner. The rule is introduced in Canada for the first time, and is unsuited to the climate and the habits of the people. It is sufficient for us to give expression to the objections which we hear from many quarters and leave it to the good sense of the Princess either to continue the regulation or to amend it, as may seem to her best."

The Toronto Telegram is very indignant and plain spoken, as the following paragraph shows:

"The idea of sensible ladies, who do not choose to present themselves at a reception in their bare shoulders, being ordered to arm themselves with a doctor's certificate, is too profoundly silly to be funny, and too glaringly insolent to be tolerated. If the ladies of Montreal had half the womanly modesty and independence of character that Canadian ladies are believed to have, they would have taken no notice of either the order or the reception, and remained quietly at home.

These attempts to plaster monarchical customs upon a country that is essentially democratic will do more to undermine the kindly feelings of the people toward the new Governor General and his wife than anything else that could have happened, and, if persisted in, will assuredly make it a matter for regret that the choice of a successor to Lord Dufferin fell upon the Queen's son-in-law. If his term of office is to be characterized by tomfoolery, of which the orders concerning drivers in boots and buttons, and ladies in low-necked dresses, are samples, the shorter it is the better.

There are other causes of complaint. A Scotch society advertised by permission a public meeting under the patronage of the vice regal pair, but the vice regal party not only neglected to attend, but did not send an excuse. A procession was gotten up for the royal pair at considerable expense, but the Princess, after proceeding a little way, unceremoniously left the pageant, and for the rest Hamlet was played with the part of Hamlet erased. And then, on a recent occasion, the reporters of the English press were entertained at the order of those representing the royal pair, while the reporters of the Dominion press were left to cool their heels in the vestibule.

The N. Y. Times quotes from a private lettle lately written by a Democratic resident in Tensas Parish, La., to a relative in Texas which closes thus: "Some estimate the killed [negroes] in Tensas and Concordia at about 200, and some say that they don't think it was over 150, but it is hard to tell. They killed those that were the most impudent and talked about killing women and children and burning houses, gins, etc. C. Moss' gin was burned as a signal for the negroes to assemble, but the whites were too fast for them."

The Democrats are declaring with great delight that the bulldozers cribbed the tissue ballot notion from the carpet-baggers. So the sins of the brutal carpet-baggers become virtues when adopted by the Democracy, do they?—New York Tribune.

The amount of dividends paid in San Francisco last month was $494,700, against $2,954,300 in November, 1877. Fourteen mining companies fell off from $2,730,000 to $309,000.

Blaine to Ben Hill: We don't want to disinter the bloody shirt, but, by jingo, if we do, we've got the facts, we've got the laws, and we'll have the ballots, too.—Cincinnati Commercial.

IMAGINATION.

Sparkling with humor, rich in volubility, of elegant diction, of refreshing purity; given the breath of life by side-splitting histrionic personations and life sketches from human nature, irresistible in their fascination.

The cross-grained Benedict, the Fop, the Spendthrift, the Miser, the victims of Vanity, Flattery, Rum, the Tragedian the Opera Singer, are each in turn presented, drawn to the very life.

Replete with wisdom and sylogistic reasoning, spiced with the spirit of mirth, grappling the leading vices and follies of the day, it is at once an entertaining and impressive lesson to both young and old.

Would you forget for a moment the cares and sorrows of life in genuine, hearty laughter, then do not fail to see and hear Mr. Croft in his vivid sketches in IMAGINATION.

MILK---5 CENTS PER QT.

Believing that it is the best policy to have but one price for articles on sale, I have fixed the price of milk furnished from my farm at 5 cents per qt., until further notice. My stock of cows, 30 in number, comprise some of the best milkers in the State, having been selected with regard to quantity and quality, and all milk furnished to my customers is supplied by my own cows. I shall spare no pains to secure to my customers good, pure and rich milk. My farm is situated about three and a half miles from the city, therefore the milk can be delivered in less than one hour after it is milked. It is a well known fact that it does not improve milk to haul it a long distance. A. W. DUDLEY, East Bangor.

BEWARE OF A THIEF.

We respect, court and enjoy honest competition, but a thief we despise. The competitor who deliberately copies a neighbor's advertisement almost word for word, is no better than a thief, who robs you of your money; and by so doing he acknowledges himself lacking in brains to write his own advertisements. We never had any Rich Relatives leave us a fortune, for the reason that we were never blessed with rich relatives; and we have never been accused of being overloaded with brains, but we do claim to have money enough to pay net cash for all the goods we buy, and also brains enough to write our own advertisements and not steal our neighbors'.

In the matter of FELIX QUINN, Bankrupt,

IN BANKRUPTCY.

This is to give notice that a Petition has been presented to the Court, this 11th day of December, 1878, by Felix Quinn, of Bangor, a Bankrupt, praying that he may be decreed to have a full discharge from all his debts provable under the Bankrupt Act, and upon reading said petition,

It is ordered by the Court that a hearing be had upon the same, on the first Monday of February, A. D. 1879, before the Court in Portland, in said District, at 10 o'clock, A. M., and that the 2d meeting of the creditors of said Bankrupt, be held before Chas. Hamlin, Esq., Register, on the 7th day of Jan., 1879, and the third meeting of the same on the 7th day of January, 1879, and that notice thereof be published in the Bangor Daily Whig and Courier and the Piscataquis Observer, newspapers printed in said District, once a week for three successive weeks, and once in the weekly Bangor Courier, the last publication to be thirty days at least before the day of hearing, and that all creditors who have proved their debts and other persons in interest, may appear at said time and place, and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.

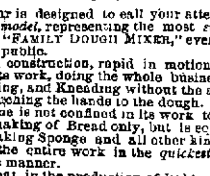
THE UNIVERSAL

Family Dough Mixer and Kneader.



Patented July 23, 1878.

This circular is designed to call your attention to the above model, representing the most simple and practical "FAMILY DOUGH MIXER," ever presented to the public.

It is neat in construction, rapid in motion, and thorough in its work, doing the whole business of Mixing, Beating, and Kneading without the aid of a spoon or touching the hands to the dough.

This Machine is not confined in its work to the mixing and making of Bread only, but is equally efficient in making Sponge and all other kinds of Cake, doing the entire work in the quickest and most thorough manner.

We claim that, in the production of light, clean, wholesome, well-mixed Bread and Cake, and in saving of time and labor, this little Mixer and Kneader surpasses anything ever before offered to the public.

It occupies only the space of the pan, and is so arranged that the Machine is easily removed from the dough, and is easy to clean.

A lady can sit and mix her Bread and Cake with this Machine, holding the pan in her lap.

Any family having one of these Mixers and Kneaders in use would not part with it for ten times its price, which places it within the reach of every family in the land. In two sizes.

Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11

The Vice-President laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War asking an appropriation of $50,000 to furnish the east wing of the new building to be occupied by the War Department Referred to the Committee on Appropriations

A number of bills were introduced and the House appropriation bill for West Point was reported with amendments and placed on the Calendar

Senator Blaine then called up his resolutions instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire whether the Constitutional rights of American citizens were violated or their right of suffrage denied, or abridged, or interfered with by violence or threats, or demonstrations of armed men at the recent elections in any State of the Union; and to report whether it is in the power of Congress to provide by additional legislation for the more perfect security of the rights of suffrage to citizens of the United States in all the States of the Union Mr Blaine addressed the Senate as follows

SENATOR BLAINE'S SPEECH

MR PRESIDENT The pending resolution was offered by me with a two-fold purpose in view

First, To place on record, in a definite and authentic form, the frauds and outrages by which some recent elections were carried by the Democratic party in the Southern States

Second To find if there be any method by which a repetition of these crimes against a free ballot may be prevented

The newspaper is the channel through which the people of the United States are informed of current events, and the accounts given in the press represent the elections in some of the Southern States to have been accompanied by violence, in not a few cases reaching the destruction of life, to have been controlled by threats that awed and intimidated a large class of voters, to have been manipulated by fraud of the most shameless and shameful description Indeed in South Carolina there seems to have been no election at all in any proper sense of the term There was instead a series of skirmishes over the State in which the polling places were regarded as forts to be captured by one party and held against the other, and where this could not be done with convenience, frauds in the count and tissue-ballot devices were resorted to in order to effectually destroy the voice of the majority These in brief are the accounts given in the non partisan press of the disgraceful outrages that attended the recent elections, and so far as I have seen, these statements are without serious contradiction It is but just and fair to all parties, however, that an impartial investigation of the facts shall be made by a committee of the Senate proceeding under the authority of law and representing the power of the nation Hence my resolution

FACTS ALREADY KNOWN

But we do not need investigation to establish certain facts already of official record We know that one hundred and six Representatives in Congress were recently chosen in the States formerly slave-holding and that the democrats elected one hundred and one or possibly one hundred and two and the republicans four or possibly five We know that thirty five of these Representatives were assigned to the Southern States by reason of the colored population, and that the entire political power thus founded on the numbers of the colored people has been seized and appropriated to the aggrandizement of its own strength by the democratic party of the South

THE RIGHTS OF WHITE MEN NORTH AS WELL AS BLACK MEN SOUTH INVOLVED.

The issue thus raised before the country, Mr President, is not one of mere sentiment for the rights of the negro—though far distant be the day when the rights of any American citizen, however black or however poor, shall form the mere dust of the balance in any controversy, nor is the issue one that involves the waving of the "bloody shirt," to quote the elegant vernacular of democratic vituperation, nor still further is the issue as now presented only a question of the equality of the black voter of the South with the white voter of the South, the issue, Mr President, has taken a far wider range, one of portentous magnitude, and that is, whether the white voter of the North shall be equal to the white voter of the South in shaping the policy and fixing the destiny of this country, or whether, to put it still more baldly, the white man who fought in the ranks of the Union Army shall have as weighty and influential a vote in the Government of the Republic as the white man who fought in the ranks of the rebel army. The one fought to uphold, the other to destroy, the Union of the States, and to-day he who fought to destroy is a far more important factor in the Government of the nation than he who fought to uphold it.

SOME STARTLING COMPARISONS

Let me illustrate my meaning by comparing groups of States of the same representative strength North and South. Take the States of South Carolina, Mississippi, and Louisiana They send seventeen Representatives to Congress Their aggregate population is composed of ten hundred and thirty-five thousand whites and twelve hundred and twenty-four thousand colored; the colored being nearly two hundred thousand in excess of the whites. Of the seventeen Representatives, then it is evident that nine were apportioned to these States by reason of their colored population, and only eight by reason of their white population; and yet in the choice of the entire seventeen Representatives the colored voters had no more voice or power than their remote kindred on the shores of Senegambia or on the Gold Coast. The ten hundred and thirty-five thousand white people had the sole and absolute choice of the entire seventeen Representatives. In contrast, take two States in the North, Iowa and Wisconsin, with seventeen Representatives. They have a white population of two million two hundred and forty-seven thousand—considerably more than double the entire white population of the three Southern States I have named. In Iowa and Wisconsin, therefore, it takes one hundred and thirty-two thousand white population to send a Representative to Congress, but in South Carolina, Mississippi, and Louisiana every sixty thousand white people send a Representative. In other words, sixty thousand white people in those Southern States have precisely the same political power in the government of the country that one hundred and thirty-two thousand white people have in Iowa and Wisconsin

Take another group of seventeen Representatives from the South and from the North Georgia and Alabama have a white population of eleven hundred and fifty eight thousand and a colored population of ten hundred and twenty thousand They send seventeen Representatives to Congress, of whom nine were apportioned on account of the white population and eight on account of the colored population But the colored voters are not able to choose a single Representative, the white Democrats choosing the whole seventeen The four Northern States, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, and California, have seventeen Representatives based on a white population of two and a quarter millions, or almost double the white population of Georgia and Alabama, so that in these relative groups of States we find the white man South exercises by his vote double the political power of the white man North

ONE CONFEDERATE SOUTHERNER WIELDING TWICE THE POWER OF A NORTHERN UNION SOLDIER

Let us carry the comparison to a more comprehensive generalization The eleven States that formed the Confederate Government had by the last census a population of nine and a half millions of which in round numbers five and a half millions were white and four millions colored On this aggregate population seventy three Representatives in Congress were apportioned to those States—forty two or three of which were by reason of the white population, and thirty or thirty one by reason of the colored population At the recent election the white democracy of the South seized seventy of the seventy three districts and thus secured a democratic majority in the next House of Representatives Thus it appears that throughout the States that formed the late Confederate Government sixty five thousand whites—the very people that rebelled against the Union—are enabled to elect a Representative in Congress while in the loyal States it requires one hundred and thirty two thousand of the white people that fought for the Union to elect a Representative In levying every tax, therefore, in making every appropriation of money in fixing every line of public policy, in decreeing what shall be the fate and fortune of the Republic, the Confederate soldier South is enabled to cast a vote that is twice as powerful and twice as influential as the vote of the Union soldier North

IN DEFIANCE OF LAW AND JUSTICE

But the white men of the South did not acquire and do not hold this superior power by reason of law or justice but in disregard and defiance of both The fourteenth amendment to the Constitution was expected to be and was designed to be a preventive and corrective of all such possible abuses The reading of the clause applicable to the case is instructive and suggestive Hear it

"Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State excluding Indians not taxed But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States Representatives in Congress the executive and judicial officers of a State or the members of the Legislature thereof is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State, being twenty one years of age and citizens of the United States or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty one years of age in such State "

The patent, undeniable intent of this provision was that if any class of voters were denied or in any way abridged in their right of suffrage, then the class so denied or abridged should not be counted in the basis of representation, or, in other words, that no State or States should gain a large increase of representation in Congress by reason of counting any class of population not permitted to take part in electing such Representatives. But the construction given to this provision is that before any forfeiture of representation can be enforced the denial or abridgment of suffrage must be the result of a law specially enacted by the State Under this construction every negro voter may have his suffrage absolutely denied or fatally abridged by the violence, actual or threatened of irresponsible mobs, or by frauds and deceptions of State officers from the governor down to the last election clerk, and then, unless some State law can be shown that authorizes the denial or abridgment the State escapes all penalty or peril of reduced representation This construction may be upheld by the courts, ruling on the letter of the law, "which killeth, but the spirit of justice cries aloud against the evasive and atrocious conclusion that deals out oppression to the innocent and shields the guilty from the legitimate consequences of willful transgression

The colored citizen is thus most unhappily situated, his right of suffrage is but a hollow mockery, it holds to his ear the word of promise but breaks it always to his hope, and he ends only in being made the unwilling instrument of increasing the political strength of that party from which he received ever tightening fetters when he was a slave and contemptuous refusal of civil rights since he was made free He resembles indeed those unhappy captives in the East who deprived of their birthright are compelled to yield their strength to the up building of the monarch from whose tyrannies they have most to fear and to fight against the power from which alone deliverance might be expected The franchise intended for the shield and defense of the negro has been turned against him and against his friends and has vastly increased the power of those from whom he has nothing to hope and everything to dread

HOW THE SOUTH IS USURPING POLITICAL CONTROL.

The political power thus appropriated by southern Democrats by reason of the negro population amounts to thirty-five Representatives in Congress It is massed almost solidly and offsets the great State of New York, or Pennsylvania and New Jersey together, or the whole of New England, or Ohio and Indiana united, or the combined strength of Illinois, Minnesota, Kansas California, Nevada, Nebraska, Colorado, and Oregon The seizure of this power is wanton usurpation, it is flagrant outrage, it is violent perversion of the whole theory of Republican Government It inures solely to the present advantage and yet, I believe, to the permanent dishonor of the Democratic party. It is by reason of this trampling down of human rights, this ruthless seizure of unlawful power that the Democratic party holds the popular branch of Congress to-day and will in less than ninety days have control of this body also, thus grasping the entire legislative department of the Government through the unlawful capture of the Southern States If the proscribed vote of the South were cast as its lawful owners desire, the Democratic party could not gain power Nay, if it were not counted on the other side against the instincts and the interests, against the principles and the prejudices of its lawful owners, Democratic success would be hopeless It is not enough, then, for modern Democratic tactics that the negro vote shall be silenced, the demand goes farther and insists that it shall be counted on their side, that all the Representatives in Congress and all the Presidential electors apportioned by reason of the negro vote shall be so cast and so governed as to insure Democratic success—regardless of justice, in defiance of law

THE NORTH READY FOR INVESTIGATION.

And this injustice is wholly unprovoked. I doubt if it be in the power of the most searching investigation to show that in any Southern State during the period of Republican control any legal voter was ever debarred from the freest exercise of his suffrage. Even the revenges which would have leaped into life with many who despised the negro were buried out of sight with a magnanimity which the "superior race" fail to follow and seem reluctant to recognize. I know it is said in retort of such charges against the southern elections as I am now reviewing that unfairness of equal gravity prevails in northern elections. I hear it in many quarters and read it in the papers that in the late exciting election in Massachusetts intimidation and bulldozing, if not so rough and rancorous as in the South, were yet as widespread and effective.

I have read and yet refuse to believe that the distinguished gentleman, who made an energetic but unsuccessful canvass for the governorship of that State, has indorsed and approved these charges and I have accordingly made my resolution broad enough to include their thorough investigation I am no demanding fair elections in the South without demanding fair elections in the North also But venturing to speak for the New England States, of whose laws and customs I know something, I dare assert that in the late election in Massachusetts or any of her neighboring Commonwealths it will be impossible to find even 1 case where a voter was driven from the polls, where a voter did not have the fullest, fairest, freest opportunity to cast the ballot of his choice and have it honestly and faithfully counted in the returns Suffrage on this continent was first made universal in New England and in the administration of their affairs her people have found no other appeal necessary than that which I addressed to their honesty of conviction and to their intelligent self-interest If there be anything different to disclose I pray you show it to us that we may amend our ways

THE TAUNT "WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?"

But whenever a feeble protest is made against such injustice as I have described in the South the response we get comes to us in the form of a taunt "What are you going to do about it? and How do you propose to help yourselves? This is the stereotyped answer of defiance which intrenched wrong always gives to inquiring justice and those who imagine it to be conclusive do not know the temper of the American people For let me assure you that against the complicated outrage upon the right of representation lately triumphant in the South there will be arrayed in many phases of public opinion in the North not often hitherto in harmony Men who have cared little, and affected to care less for the rights or the wrongs of the negro suddenly find that vast monetary and commercial interests great questions of revenue adjustments of tariff vast investments in manufactures in railways and in mines are under the control of a Democratic Congress whose majority was obtained by depriving the negro of his rights under a common constitution and common laws Men who have expressed disgust with the waving of bloody shirts and have been offended with talk about negro equality are beginning to perceive that the pending question of to-day relates more pressingly to the equality of white men under this Government and that however careless they may be about the rights or the wrongs of the negro they are very jealous and tenacious about the rights of their own race and the dignity of their own firesides and their own kindred

THE PEOPLE WILL NEVER SUBMIT TO THE NATIONAL WRONG

I know something of public opinion in the North I know a great deal about the views wishes and purposes of the Republican party of the nation Within that entire great organization there is not one man whose opinion is entitled to respect that does not desire peace and harmony and friendship and a patriotic and fraternal union between the North and the South This wish is spontaneous instinctive, universal throughout the Northern States, and yet among men of character and sense there is surely no need of attempting to deceive ourselves as to the precise truth First pure than peaceable Gish will not remove a grievance and no disguise of State rights will close the eyes of our people to the necessity of correcting a great national wrong Nor should the South make the fatal mistake of concluding that injustice to the negro is not also injustice to the white man, nor should it ever be forgotten that for the wrongs of both a remedy will assuredly be found The war, with all its costly sacrifices was fought in vain unless equal rights for all classes be established in all the States of the Union, and now in words which are those of friendship however differently they may be accepted I tell the men of the South here on this floor and beyond this Chamber that even they could strip the negro of his constitutional rights they can never permanently maintain the inequality of white men in this nation, they can never make a white man's vote in the South doubly as powerful in the administration of the Government as a white man's vote in the North

A WARNING TO THE SOUTH

In a memorable debate in the House of Commons Mr Macaulay reminded Daniel O'Connell, when he was moving for Repeal that the English whigs had endured calumny abuse popular fury loss of position exclusion from Parliament rather than the great agitator himself should be less than a British subject, and Mr Macaulay warned him that they would never suffer him to be more Let me now remind you that the Government under whose protecting flag we sit to-day sacrificed myriads of lives and expended thousands of millions of treasure that our countrymen of the South should remain citizens of the United States having equal personal rights and equal political privileges with all other citizens And I venture now and here to warn the men of the South in the exact words of Macaulay that we will never suffer them to be more [Loud applause in galleries]

Thurman's Amendment

Mr Thurman submitted the following as an amendment to Mr Blaine's resolution

The committee shall also enquire whether any citizen of any State has been dismissed from employment or deprived of any right or any privilege by reason of his vote or intention to vote at the recent elections or been otherwise interfered with and to inquire whether in the year 1878 money was raised by assessment or otherwise upon federal office-holders or employes for election purposes and under what circumstances and by what means and if so, what amount was so raised and how the same was expended, and further, whether such assessments were or not in violation of the law, and shall further inquire into the action and conduct of the United States Supervisors of Elections in the several States and as to the number of Marshals Deputy Marshals and others employed to take part in the conduct of said elections, in what States or cities appointed, the amount of money paid or promised to be paid to them and how or by whom and under what law and authority

Mr. Thurman—Mr President I attempted to offer that amendment before the Senator from Maine proceeded with his remarks, but failed to have an opportunity to do so I intended then to say that whatever opinion might be entertained on this side of the Chamber as to the competency of Congress to make all investigations that those resolutions contemplate, yet we were disposed to waive all scruples of that character and suffer the resolutions to pass without opposition if the amendment now proposed should be added to them The Senator from Maine, however, having a speech carefully studied and prepared, exercised his right to deliver that speech before my amendment could be offered I do not complain of that at all, nor do I now rise to make any extended reply to the speech I have heard just now Should this debate be protracted I may exercise my privilege of saying something in reply to the Senator from Maine, but to-day I shall confine myself to a very few general observations

The Senator is frank in one thing His resolution is broad, it includes all the States, it provides for an investigation whether the rights of American citizens in connection with the elective franchise have been violated or interfered with in any of the States, but he frankly admits in the very outset of his remarks that that was not his purpose, that his purpose was to assail the Democracy of the South He had two purposes in preparing this carefully elaborated speech: not to vindicate the rights of suffrage throughout this whole Union, but to inquire whether the Democracy of the Southern States had violated the rights of American citizens and then to find out what could be done with them—Now, Mr. President, that is very frank and I have no doubt a very true statement of the animus of this resolution. I said there might be some doubts as to the propriety of this investigation. I repeat it there may be such doubts especially to-day. Here is a short session of Congress. We have, excluding the recess that we always take, less perhaps than two months within which to dispose of the appropriation bills and other measures of legislation that necessarily require the attention of Congress. If the business of the session is to be disposed of and no extra session to be called; and now, sir, the Senator proposes an investigation that I defy any committee that can be found to make with anything like thoroughness, nay in any satisfactory manner, with anything like justice, either to those who are implicated or to those who may be implicated, within the time that remains of the session of the Senate It is an impossibility I have, therefore wondered why this resolution was introduced, unless it was to make a string upon which to hang speeches to arouse sectional hatred in one portion of this Union against an almost defenceless people in another portion of the Union (Applause in the galleries)

The Vice-President—The chair gives notice that if this applause shall be repeated the galleries will be cleared

Mr Edmunds—Mr President if the Senator will pardon me, I hope the chair will add, "and that the persons guilty of this disorder will be taken into arrest

The President—The chair adds that

Mr Thurman—And I hope that there will be no interruption whatever I did not say anything when the galleries cheered the peroration of my friend from Maine for I love an eloquent thing as much as anybody can and have sometimes cheered it when I did not agree with it at all (Laughter) Now Mr President, this assault of the Senator from Maine is not an assault simply, however on the people of the South I said five months ago in a speech which I beg pardon for repeating, here, but it did seem to me as clear as any thing in American politics could be that there was a deliberately formed purpose under the pretext that there was a solid South, to create a solid North to rule not only the solid South but to rule one half nearly, if not more of the people of the north I thought so then, I think so yet I thought then and I think now that a purpose more unpatriotic, more unjust more fraught with ruin to this country never entered the brain of man That is my belief

Why Mr President of what is it that the Senator of Maine complains? That there are not enough Republican votes at the South That is the amount of it and how does he make that out? He assumes without one shadow of proof produced here that the negroes of the South were prevented from voting or forced to vote the Democratic ticket He assumes therefore that owing to those causes the negroes of the South are not represented by the members of the House of Representatives from that section of the Union, or by the Senators on this floor who represent the Southern States What right has the Senator from Maine to say that the negroes of the South are not represented by the chosen Representatives of the South and the chosen Senators of the South? What right has he to rate these, the negroes on one side him self and say the men who bear credentials of election do not represent their constituents? Why Mr President it is a bare assumption on his part that he has no right whatever to make But again the Senator ought to have thought of this when he was framing his 14th and 15th amendments or when he was assisting in framing them There were men there men of his own party too who told him with long foresight that in the end property and intelligence will rule the land and ignorance cannot Mr President those were the men of his party who foresaw that those people who have the intelligence the education and property will not be ruled by those who have neither and that it is not necessary to separate the community into white people and colored people not at all is it necessary to do that No Mr President the result of these constitutional amendments was easy enough to be foreseen

I am not here to day to justify the violation of the rights of any man however humble he may be, or whatever may be the poverty of his situation I am here for no such purpose as that

Mr Thurman asked who it was that drew the color line in the South, and said millions had been expended in getting negroes into loyal leagues and swearing them never to vote for a Democrat It was the Freedman But can that drew the color line — When the intelligent property holders of the South saw their households and social institutions menaced by an inundation of barbarism directed by men strong in numbers united as a menaced people always will unite then a cry is raised against the Solid South It is not by more penal laws the condition of the country can be improved He further said that the resolution was a note which is sounded to the North that they must retrace their steps and this very party which required the amendment to be made in the interests of the Southern negroes is now preparing to take about and undo its work

He said the country has cause to congratulate itself that the next House will be Democratic that if a Republican he should be prepared to see Southern members excluded by the score There is a greater danger menacing our free institutions than that to which Blaine alluded, the increasing use of money in elections that danger exists more in the North than in the South In closing he hinted that resolutions were offered and urged to divert public attention from the real questions which should engage Congress questions of economy finance and government

Lamar's Regret and His Threat

Mr Lamar expressed great surprise and regret that Blaine was directing his attention solely to the political condition of the negroes instead of laboring for their advancement in education and intelligence which would in the end overcome all irregularities He proceeded to argue that Maine has more power in the Government than New York though having barely one sixth the population In closing he would tell the people of New England that their direst foe on earth is the Representative or Senator from whatever section who will kindle this fire of sectional hate whose flame will liquify the very foundations on which these free commonwealths are rearing their heads

Colloquy Between Senators Blaine and Thurman

Mr Blaine—I do not desire to detain the Senate, but I wish one word The Senator from Ohio (Mr Thurman) has informed the country and informed it with as much authority as any man can speak that property in the South will rule

Mr Thurman—I said no such thing I said no more South, than I have said of everywhere, that property intelligence and education will rule

Mr Blaine—Regardless of numbers?

Mr Thurman—Oh well now, the Senator can have it regardless of numbers if he wants it

Mr Blaine—How will they rule regardless of numbers? By unlawful means?

Mr Thurman—Does not the Senator influence a good many people in Maine to vote as he thinks?

Mr Blaine—I should like to influence some in Ohio (Laughter)

Mr Thurman—He failed this year He does it every year, year in and year out because he has intelligence and education and skill and property That is the reason of it and so let me tell him that if he lived down South he would persuade, he would have a tail of niggers more lengthy than any Highland chief ever had in the Highlands, (Laughter) all by reason of his character, education and morals

Mr Blaine Forces the Real Issue

Mr Blaine—I am equally sure that if the Senator from Ohio lived in the South he would not have a tail of negroes following him at all Laughter] We should be just in contrast But I wanted to bring him to the point on this remark The Senator qualifies but it still stands out and the leader of the Democratic party, based on the rights of the people, without educational test or property qualification as the Democratic doctrine has always been, announces here to us that property and education will rule, and when we assert that they have ruled by violence he tells us there are important questions which we should consider and that Congress has no time to waste on that The initial step in the organization of every legislative body is to see that it is honestly filled by men honestly elected and if it were permitted by the parliamentary law of Congress I would say and declare here to-day that the Democratic party does not hold right fully a way in that body now and will hold it in the next House by fraud and outrage which no mere declaration against "sectional agitation" can overcome

And we are asked to abandon all sectional agitation, or asked under the plea of abandoning sectional agitation to submit all the grave and great questions that protect property and human rights to a Congress that is based upon the destruction of human rights, and that lacks the warrant laid down by Jefferson of the right to govern It has not "the consent of the governed" (Manifestations of applause in galleries which were checked by the Vice President.)

Temporary Close of the Debate

Mr. Edmunds spoke at some length with frequent interruptions, after which the resolutions were laid aside, and Mr. Blaine gave notice that he would call them up again at the earliest opportunity

[The trouble with the wires and the late hour at which the Senate debate was received prevents giving the House proceedings]

AN OLD BOOK Mr Joseph Brown left at this office yesterday a book two hundred and sixty six years old It is a treatise on Heaven and Hell and was printed in 1612 It was brought to this country by Rev Alexander McLean who came from the Isle of Skye in Scotland and settled at Bristol in this State in 1772 He died at Newcastle 1803 and was buried at Bristol Mr McLean gave the book to Mr James Boyd and from him it came into the possession of Mr Ira Chamberlain of this city who presented it to Mr Brown of this city The leaves have turned yellow with age but the print is clear and easily read The book was rebound this year and will be valued as an old relic for years to come

GARLAND ITEMS Our correspondent O writes Garland has a hotel called the Tremont House J S Knight proprietor —The Kenduskeag stream is now higher than was ever known in this place Below the mills it overflows the road and has washed away eight or ten rods of the sidewalk preventing pedestrians from passing and making it very dangerous for teams A crew of men are now at work repairing the damage The dam at Holt's mills has given away and the old mill owned by J Skillin has been swept from its foundation —A horse owned by Mr G S Coffin started from the grist mill last Monday and ran about three quarters of a mile but was captured before doing any damage

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT Our correspondent B at Hudson writes A sad drowning accident occurred in this town Tuesday by which two boys aged eight and ten years lost their lives They were the sons of Mr S P Pierce and [illegible] Flagg had been permitted to go a short distance from their homes for the purpose of playing on the ice of some meadow land, adjoining the Pushaw stream As they failed to return a search was commenced which revealed the fact that they ventured onto some smooth ice near the stream and were carried into the water where it was ten feet deep The body of the Pierce boy was found a few hours after the fatal accident but all efforts to recover the other body have thus far been fruitless

TUESDAY'S FIRE There seems to be various opinions entertained as to the origin of the fire Tuesday evening Some think it caught from a defect in the chimney which only runs down as far as the second floor the funnel from the stove in the clothing store leading through the floor into the chimney Others are of the opinion that it caught from sparks which escaped from the chimney through the doors of a small furnace which is used for heating irons and the doors of which were open on the evening in question As Mr Prescott visited the room in the evening to show some rubber goods to some gentlemen and as they were smoking at the time it is though that they may have possibly started the fire We understand that the damage to the building will not amount to more than fifty dollars

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN By referring to another column it will be seen that Anthony & Parsons Uncle Tom's Cabin Company will give an entertainment in Norombega Hall next Wednesday evening — The Amesbury (Mass) Herald speaks as follows of their performance — Uncle Tom's Cabin drew a full house — All the parts were well rendered and if we were inclined to be specific we should say Uncle Tom and Little Eva could hardly be excelled Phineas Fletcher and Topsy made no failures and did not fail to draw down the house As a whole the acting was good and then the arrangements were such as to keep the audience in sympathy Each new act followed promptly on the last keeping up the interest throughout and impressing the conviction that the next would be more thrilling than any yet presented

COURSE OF LECTURES The attention of our citizens is directed to the advertisement in another column in relation to the course of lectures given under the auspices of the Congregational Societies A glance at the names of those who are to speak is all that is necessary to convince our citizens that the course will be both interesting and instructive The first entertainment in the course will be a select reading by Prof J W Churchill one week from next Monday evening Prof Churchill is a member of the Faculty of Andover Theological Seminary as the Jones Professor of Elocution and is the regular lecturer in Boston University School of Oratory Smith and Wellesley Colleges Phillips and Abbott Academies Andover and Mt Holyoke Seminary South Hadley Mass He is an elocutionist of a very high order and his readings will undoubtedly be largely attended

THE EFFECTS OF THE STORM The storm Tuesday night was the most severe that has been known in this part of the country for years and an immense amount of damage must have been done In the city the wind blew a perfect gale all night and signs awnings blinds and slate were flying about in all directions Several trees were blown down and as the rain fell in torrents all night long houses that never leaked before, were well moistened inside The water in the river is very high and it is thought that the river will be higher to-day than it has been for years The roads in the country are all badly washed and some of them are almost impassable The Corinth stage came as far as Kenduskeag, where they found the roads so badly washed that they came into the city by the old Levant road The Ellsworth stage left at twelve o clock Tuesday night and proceeded as far as Phillips where they remained until morning and arrived here at a little before one o clock yesterday afternoon The other mail stages were all late The railroads were all more or less washed and the trains badly delayed. The morning Pullman train on the Maine Central did not leave Portland until three hours after the usual time, owing to a bad washout on the Eastern Road, and did not reach here until about eleven o'clock yesterday morning There were also several washouts on the Maine Central, so that the evening train did not arrive here until after ten o'clock last evening. On the E. & N A. Railway a washout at Basin Mills and another at Veazie, detained the morning train over an hour In the afternoon word was received that there was another washout near Forest, and the evening train was two hours behind time. The Bangor & Piscataquis track was overflowed above Guilford, so that the train which leaves here in the morning only went up as far as that place. There was no freight train over this road yesterday.

AUNT ANN

She'd Green came across lots from the road house on the hill to where in the Antisses back porch, Miss Ann was shelling peas Her greeting was, 'La, Ann, you don't say that's you! but then I might 'a knowed. As I was tellin' yisterday, 'If Ann is visitin' she'll smell measles to hum, and come tarin' back. Ann allus was a reg'lar little angel of charity, bus'n' round.'

To relish compliments is human, probably Miss Antiss appreciated hers, but her manner of receiving it was characteristic. She said 'Well I had to come hum some time so it was as well one time as another. Hannah needed some one bad enough. How's the folks?'

Our folks is all smart, and I was up to Ruth's day afore yisterday Ruth's layin' down lots of butter, and the farm looks beautiful They're all well too, only it seems to me Annie looks rather peaked. She allus had so much color, and used to be so full of her talk, but she jest set and sewed and hardly said a word. Lizzy's growin' dreadful fast, she's a reglar tomboy. Keith allus was slack with her children. We Hetter and me had a real good time an' when we come along, we stopped at Miss Hadden's and there was her Lize and Harry Jackson a settin' on the stoop Miss Hadden she hinted round about his [illegible] there so often but you needn't tell me Harry Jackson don't want Lize an' [illegible] ... But, la me, how I keep runnin' on. I suppose you couldn't [illegible] me, hev jest a tiny cup of yeast? ours worked and Hetter's awful partic'lar about yeast.

Something is to pay, Miss Antiss said to [illegible] as she resumed work after watching Miss Green's yellow sunbonnet bob through the hole in the fence At meeting growing thin and quiet and Harry Jackson a settin' Lize Hadden, for Keith she'd never see nothin' was the matter till Ann had fretted herself to death. [illegible] ... too busy, and Annie is [illegible] ... She'd never say [illegible] to nobody But I'll find out [illegible] ... I'll go over.

A week later and Annie was seated in [illegible] trying to read, and not succeeding at all at [illegible] her sad thoughts, when [illegible] through the hall, and [illegible] over the scraps of carpet [illegible] floor

[illegible] mother to hum

Yes, she is down in the garden Does any one want to see her

There's a woman a settin' in a shay at the gate but she won't get out till she knows if Miss Ford's to hum

Who is it Jabez?

[illegible] A little bitter faced woman, [illegible] step out and call Miss Ford—escaping through the open door for woman kind of any age was Jabez's terror

Annie found a small figure surmounted by a green calash seated bolt upright in an old chaise drawn by a sleepy looking white horse whose every tail whisk seemed to disturb the driver, as she always followed it with a 'So, Jinnie.'

Oh Aunt Ann is that you? How glad I am to see you! Mother's at home, she was down in the garden Won't you get in

Yes, if you'll hold the horse's head. Be keerful child—as Annie took hold of the bridle— she's dreadful skittish. But who's goin' to take my things? beginning now that she was able to take her eyes from the horse to reach under the seat and haul out various baskets and bundles

Jabez called Annie but Jabez was already on his way to the meadow lot with his rake over his shoulder

Lizz'! where are you!

Here, swinging

Come down to the front gate Aunt Ann's here

Oh what fun and a merry looking, sunburnt girl of fifteen jumped from the swing and ran around the house and through the large, shady yard to the gate

How do you do Aunt Ann? It's so long since you've been here that I have almost forgotten how you look. But why don't you get out

Lizzbeth your tongue runs faster n ever. Take these things —handing out a band-box, a work bag, a basket, large cotton umbrella and a camphor bottle. Then the descent was accomplished. Grasping firmly the [illegible] dashboard Miss Antiss put a foot on the step drew it back to see if Annie was holding the horse's head firmly, tried the other foot and finally reached the [illegible] steps safely displaying in the operation a good deal of thin leg encased in black stocking foot footed with white. Safe on terra firma, Miss Antiss breathed a sigh of relief greeting her great niece [illegible] and turned to the horse.

[illegible] be put up. Where's that [illegible] it was [illegible] the yard

Oh I'll put her in the barn auntie. Here Annie take these things. Tumbling them unceremoniously into Annie's arms Lizzie sprang into the chaise and clattering to the barn, [illegible] her smartly with the whip astonishing the animal into a gallop

My patience sake me. Lizbeth will be killed. It's a real riskin' of providence to [illegible] so fast said Aunt Ann but the [illegible] rumbled and rolled into the lane safe [illegible] disappeared in the barn Mrs. Ford was hurrying to the gate as they turned—a broad [illegible] bonnet strings [illegible] little breeze such a large [illegible] walking so fast

Why, Aunt Ann, I'm proper glad to [illegible] right in. I was down in the garden and had to wash my hands. How did you come to get away, and all Hannah's [illegible] down with the measles?

Hannah's [illegible] ... thank the [illegible] to come and go as I [illegible] I wanted to see Jacob and they are all through [illegible] on em

We're dreadful pleased to see you anyway. Walk right into the keepin'-room [illegible] your aunt's bonnet said Mrs Ford who was a most hospitable woman, [illegible] the house before them to open [illegible] pleasant room, with two sunny windows looking out over the rolling [illegible] of the farm A bright carpet was on the floor, the rocking chairs and lounge were covered with fresh chintz, several pretty pictures hung on the wall and [illegible] books covered the table and hanging shelves Mr Ford was a well-to-do farmer and Annie had spent two years away from home at school, which accounted for the tasteful arrangement of flowers [illegible] about the room

The green calash removed Miss Antiss proved to be an exceedingly small, spare person with a face yellowed by time and lined with innumerable wrinkles, a sharp nose and faded blue eyes. Her very thin brown hair was screwed into a knob on the back of her head and the front arranged in two flat curls held in place by side combs directly over her ears. Taking her patchwork from her bag, she at once began taking small even stitches sitting bolt upright in her chair casting sharp glances meanwhile out of the window and about the room where no movement of her favorite Annie escaped her Mrs Ford took a rocking chair and her knitting. Then the conversation began

Be the boys and Jacob well?

Usually well Jacob gets pretty tired by night but the boys go ahead, and do [illegible] Sibyl said you'd been away?"

Yes, I've been clean a matter of twenty miles to the Union, but it didn't look very natral and I warn't sorry to come away. There's hardly anybody left there that I knowed, either

What is it like Aunt Ann?" said Lizzie, who had come in and seated herself on the window sill beside her

Oh farms now, much as it looks here. When we used to live there, on Green's patent between there and Peru village, the pine trees stood so thick on each side of the ford, a two-year-old heifer couldn't crowd between them, and the sun never touched the road in the longest summer days It was dreadful wild round then. One day me and your great-uncle Sam'el went into the back lot to carry the men their dinner—'twarn't fur from the house neither—but we had to pass a little woods, and right on the other side on it, a settin' right up on end, looking at us, was what we took for a great gray dog He looked at us and we at him He jumped up and trotted off, then we saw that it was a gray wolf—as big a one as ever I seen, too."

Oh, my! weren't you frightened?"

To be Concluded.

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number. People should inform their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly.

Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the same is put on at the office Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first trip supplying the extremes of their routes.

Collections are made morning and evening in season for important mails—the down town boxes fifteen and the up town boxes thirty minutes before closing mails at the office

Holidays the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A M, and from 7½ to 8 P M. Sundays from 8½ to 9½ A M.

Any Irregularities in the Carriers' department should be reported to the office.

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and request to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, (samples of which may be seen at the Cashier's window,) when ordered in lots of not less than 500

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State across the left end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with
